

Figure 1: Cell proliferation of human midbrain derived progenitor cells under normal and atmospheric conditions with normal or reduced oxygen assessed by total protein content per flask. The top panel shows a representative phase contrast microphotograph of a cell cluster („neurosphere“) of progenitor cells after 20 days in culture.